

ALLIES MAKING ONE MORE ATTEMPT AT THE DARDANELLES

Effort To Force Much Desired Waterway Before Aid Reaches Turks

BULGARS JOIN GERMANS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, November 7.—Simultaneous with the announcement that Lord Kitchener, secretary of state for war, has left for the Balkans, where he may assume personal command of the expedition of the Allies, comes word that the Anglo-French troops on the Gallipoli Peninsula, after repulsing a series of Turkish attacks, have commenced a wide offensive, with which the fleet is cooperating.

It is generally believed that the Allies are making one more supreme effort to force the Turkish positions and gain the Narrows, opening the way to Constantinople before the ammunition being hurried to the Turks by the Germans can reach them.

Bulgars Capture Nish
Yesterday, after holding out against assault for three days by vastly superior numbers, Nish, the Serbian war capital, fell, and the Bulgarians are in full possession of the town. At the same time, in Northern Serbia, the Germans and Bulgarians joined hands at Krivovar and the two main invading armies will now cooperate as one. With this joint action it is expected that the invaders will be able to make greater progress against the dwindling Serbian ranks in the north. In recent operations the Germans surrounded and captured a detachment of three thousand and Serbians.

Serbs Fight Bitterly
In their operations in the south the Bulgarians are losing heavily, a Havas agency dispatch by way of Paris announcing that the Serbian war office estimates the Bulgarian casualties to date at one hundred thousand, which figure does not include the Bulgarians taken prisoners by the Serbians and by the Allies.

More Allies Landing
The Allies continue to land troops at Salonika, the regiment being dispatched north and east as they arrive. It is expected that the forces proceeding north will capture Veles within a few days and will force the retirement of the Bulgarians from that section west of Uskup.

This would permit of the clearing of the railroad and would open the way for the Allies to reach the Serbians who are still holding out in the north.

Disquieting reports are being received that Rumania is less inclined than ever to throw in her lot with Russia and that the pressure of the German victories in Serbia is forcing the Rumanians to refuse permission to Russia for the use of the Danube for the transportation of munitions and men to the Bulgarian borders.

ITALY REPORTS MINOR SUCCESS

ROME, November 7.—An official statement by the war office says: "Our heavy artillery continues to pound the Austrian positions along the Isonzo front, with material damage to the enemy. In the Ledro Valley and in the basin of the Bezzeza, the enemy bombarded a number of the villages, damaging much property and causing conflagration."

"Our attacks in the San Michele zone have been successful. We have captured some strong entrenchments from the enemy and taken one hundred and fifty prisoners, besides capturing many boxes of machine gun ammunition, a number of the guns and much supplies."

RUSSIANS MAKE QUICK RECOVERY

Turn Against Pursuers in South And Gain Victory With Many Prisoners

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
PARIS, November 7.—While being pressed back along a wide portion of the Galician front, so rapidly that the official reports from Berlin and Vienna announced that the Russian campaign in the south had almost completely collapsed, the Russians made a sudden stand and a quick offensive yesterday driving the until then exulting Austro-Germans back, recapturing the village of Semikowitz and taking eight thousand five hundred prisoners and a large quantity of supplies, including machine guns.

The sudden check blow of the seemingly defeated Slavs has, says the official reports from Petrograd, again placed the Austro-Germans on the defensive.

PEKING ANNOUNCES MAJORITY IN FAVOR OF CROWNED HEAD

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
PEKING, November 6.—Sentiment in China is overwhelmingly in favor of a return to the monarchical form of government, according to official announcement made at government offices today, after receiving by mail and telegraph the returns of the elections.

Fifteen out of eighteen provinces have returned a vote in favor of a monarchy, it is announced. It is also stated by government officials that an explanation has been made to Japan of the reason why China did not accede to the request to postpone the elections. A change, however, may be made in the plans to return to the monarchy.

One report is that a request may be made that the council of state legalize the postponement in case it is decided to change the date.

He has been in the United States for some time, and is now on his way to Japan, where he will be in charge of an international hospital in Tokyo, which plan has the endorsement and the financial backing of Premier Count Okuma.

MANY DIE IN NEW YORK FACTORY FIRE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, November 7.—Thirteen dead bodies recovered from the ruins, thirteen dead bodies yet to be found and forty persons in the hospital, many of whom will die from their injuries, is the death and injury toll from a disastrous fire which broke out in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn yesterday. The men and women were trapped in a four-story frame building which burned like tinder, the staircases being destroyed before the occupants of the upper floors could escape.

Flames belching from the windows out of any chance of using the fire escapes, and eight girls burned to death in making the attempts. The forty injured received their injuries in jumping from the upper story windows.

BRITISH NEARING CITY OF BAGDAD

Germany Warned That Effect Of Capture On Arabs May Be Far Reaching

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
AMSTERDAM, November 7.—The military expert of the Berlin Tagblatt discussing the British expedition from the Persian Gulf and along the valley of the Euphrates, warns Germany to be prepared to hear of the early occupation of Bagdad, which the British are rapidly approaching.

"The fall of Bagdad is to be expected," he writes, "inasmuch as it is not fortified and the Turkish garrison is small. No great military significance is to be attached to the British capture of this Arabian city, but the moral effect of its occupation upon the Arabs and the Persians should not be underestimated."

PLAIN DUTY OF AMERICAN-BORN CAPTAIN FETTER, A KAMAAINA, IS DEAD

Citizens of Japanese Blood Must Be Loyal To Own Flag And Forget Japan

"Should such a calamity as war between America and Japan overtake us, there must come the parting of the ways, and hard though it may be, let each of you rise and fight patriotically for his country."

The Japanese born for Japan and the Hawaiian and American born for America.

In these words, Rev. S. Sokabe, of Honolulu, brought home to the American-born Japanese of Hawaii the duty they owe their country, in which they are citizens with rights equal to any, and with obligations equal to their rights.

The Japanese pastor was addressing a recent meeting of the Japanese-American Society of Hilo, his address creating a great deal of comment in Japanese circles throughout the Territory.

Mr. Sokabe's address in full was: "Most Important Question."

As an immigration writer, in speaking on the immigration question of the United States, said: "No question before the country is more important than an adequate settlement of the whole immigration question, and a just, well-defined and definite policy for the future."

"Using almost the same words I will say that no question before the Japanese-American community is more important than an adequate settlement of the citizenship question, and a just well-defined and definite policy for the future."

"This question will only be solved when the Japanese who have the rights of citizenship given them realize their responsibilities and duties as citizens and become loyal subjects of the United States."

Not Bound to Japan
Hawaiian born Japanese, and Japanese born in other American territory, are not bound to Japan, and are no longer subjects, but citizens of the United States of America and as such should owe true and loyal to her.

The Bible says: "Brothers, you know that law has power over a man only as long as he lives. For example, he law a married woman is bound to her husband while she is living; but if her husband dies she is set free from the law that bound her to him." And again: "Was a man already circumcised when he was called? Then he should not be circumcised. Has a man been called when uncircumcised? Then he should not be circumcised."

But you American born and naturalized Japanese are bound to the Stars and Stripes and should unite in loyalty for Hawaii and the United States, and should not allow yourselves to be divided as did Patrick Henry—as did Israel Paddock—patriotically to the state and thus guard and maintain the prosperity of your country, the United States of America.

SUBMARINE BLOCKADE ABANDONED BY GERMANY

In Deference To America, Says Berlin Report—Costly and Useless Is British Explanation

(Special Cable to Hawaii Ship)
TOKIO, November 7.—Word of the sinking of the first Japanese steamer by a German submarine was received yesterday. This was the Kasukuni Maru, which was attacked in the Western Mediterranean and destroyed. The members of the crew were saved.

TWO FRENCH AND AN ITALIAN ALSO SUNK

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, November 7.—The appearance of at least three German submarines in the western waters of the Mediterranean and the total inactivity of the submarines in the waters immediately surrounding the British Isles and the northern coast of France have led to reports on the Continent that the Germans have decided definitely to abandon their underwater campaign in British waters and seek elsewhere for merchant ships and warships to attack.

The continental reports, which are credited to German sources, intimate that the German decision to abandon the submarine blockade is in deference to the opinion of the United States, the danger of further clashes with Washington remaining so long the submarines continue to operate along the Anglo-British steamship routes. By withdrawing her submarines from these waters, say the reports, Germany will give substance to her agreement with America.

The British explanation of the total collapse of the underwater campaign, which had been launched to blockade the British coast and destroy British shipping, is that the counter activities of the British navy have destroyed and captured so many of the German submarines and have so shaken the morale of the German submarine sailors that Germany has been compelled to find some other use for her underwater ships or lay them up in German harbors with the dreadnoughts and battle cruisers.

Yesterday the presence of German submarines in the Mediterranean, which had evidently run the gauntlet of the destroyers patrolling the Strait of Gibraltar, became known through attacks upon French and Italian steamers, two of the former and one of the latter being sunk. A report from Algiers says that one of the French steamers is the Beffers.

Only one life was lost, according to reports, the other members of the three crews getting safely away in their small boats.

VILLA FUMES AND THREATENS BORDER TOWNS

Vill Treat Americans As They Are Treating Him, Without Further Scruple, He Tells American Doctors In His Hands

WILL TURN HIS GUNS UPON DOUGLAS NEXT

In Meanwhile He Is Preparing Naco For Defense Against Attack Threatened By Oregon, Who Arrives On The Border

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NACO, Arizona, November 7.—"Hereafter we will treat the Americans exactly as they treat us. We will do as we please now, without further scruple," declared General Villa, after being informed that the United States would allow the transportation of Villa wounded from this point to Juarez, according to the reports brought here by the two Americans, Doctors Miller and Thigpen, who had been taken prisoners by the Villistas when attempting to render first aid to the wounded after the battle at Agua Prieta.

The two doctors and their two chauffeurs arrived here yesterday, after a series of exciting adventures while in Villa's hands.

Their Executions Ordered
As soon as Villa's request to be allowed to send his wounded to Juarez for treatment had been refused by the American government, he ordered the four Americans to be executed at once, as a measure of retaliation. Only the active intercession of the Villa generals, who pointed out the serious consequences likely to follow the execution of two doctors, saved the four Americans from death.

"Hereafter we will treat the Americans exactly as they treat us," he told the doctors, when ordering their execution. After he had been prevailed upon to spare their lives, he declared that he would hold them as prisoners, anyhow, and put the two men in the front of his infantry when he made his next attack upon Agua Prieta.

He threatened to turn his artillery directly upon Douglas when this attack is launched and repeated his threat to destroy the American army at Douglas under General Funston.

On three different occasions he ordered the execution of the four Americans, finally relenting them.

Oregon Sees Funston
Reports received from Douglas last night announced the arrival at Agua Prieta of General Oregon, Carranza's leading commander. General Oregon immediately began to organize the army under General Calles for an advance against the remnants of Villa's force.

When this word reached Villa, last night, he immediately began to fortify his Naco positions for defense, digging trenches and erecting barbed wire entanglements. He is so arranging his defenses as to make an attack impossible without bringing this American portion of the town directly under the fire of the attackers.

The Douglas dispatches state that General Oregon, who has the conference with General Funston and has protested against the presence in Mexico as an American official of Corrothers, whom he accuses of being a Villa agent.

Builder of K-2 NOT RESPONSIBLE
FOSTON, November 7.—That the government can enter no valid claim against the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, builders of the submarine K-2, because of the battery faults that have been discovered since the submarine was officially accepted by the government is the opinion of Graham Egerton, solicitor for the navy department.

The K-2 was accepted by Rear Admiral Little, the government inspector, and the defects regarding the batteries were not developed until months afterwards, says the solicitor. The shipbuilding company cannot be held responsible for damages nor made to replace the defective batteries, whatever may have been the understanding between the admiral and the constructors.
